Hi! My name is

Tina Croxton. 🤓
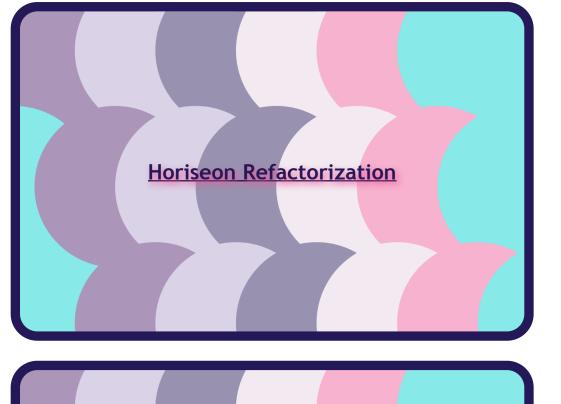

I am a fullstack web developer. 🖥️

About Me 👋

As I'm sure you already know, my name is Tina Croxton and I am a fullstack web developer. But here's what you may not know:

I graduated from Rutgers University with a Bachelors in Mathematics in 2016. I am currently a Data Conversion Specialist with Paylocity within their Implementation department, where I write SQL queries to migrate sensitive payroll data from one system into theirs. I have a knack for graphic design as well as illustration; they are hobbies that I enjoy in my free time. My desire to create, craft and produce something that can be enjoyed by the public is what pushed me to pursue a career in web development.

As a web developer, I want to create websites that are not only functional and useful, but also unique, engaging and fun to interact with as a user. Now that that's over, check out my work below!
